

This PreK-12 Market Survey Report is the first in a series of SIIA reports analyzing the size of education market segments. By gathering sales information directly from education technology companies, SIIA has created a report that companies can trust to find specific sales information needed to understand their market share.

The report will be more comprehensive as more companies participate. If you'd like to be an anonymous "data point" in the next report, please contact us at education@siia.net for more information. We are now gathering company contact information and data for our next PK-12 Report as well as for a new report on the postsecondary market.
