

SLIA's Education Division hosts several events and conferences each year. Highlights include:

Ed Tech Business Forum

For the past eleven years, the SLIA Ed Tech Business Forum (ETBF) has earned its reputation as the leading business and finance conference for the K-12 and postsecondary education technology market. At our 2012 conference, you'll find these successful components from past Forums designed to help you:

- Network with business and finance executives in the ed tech industry
- Gain early access to new companies/technologies
- Learn new business models, regardless of your company's size or lifecycle stage
- Leverage the many education events taking place in NYC the week following Thanksgiving

Ed Tech Industry Summit

It's May...it's San Francisco... and it's our annual Ed Tech Industry Summit (ETIS), the nation's leading education technology conference! ETIS features content-rich sessions on the ed tech market and connecting industry executives through networking sessions. During the conference, industry leaders will provide strategies, case studies, and success stories about best business practices on hot industry topics.

Ed Tech Government Forum

Since the mid-1990s, the SLIA Ed Tech Government Forum (ETGF, previously the DC Fly-In) has been the preeminent Washington, DC technology and publishing event. The Ed Tech Government Forum offers an excellent opportunity to meet with national education leaders and translate federal funding and regulations into actionable market intelligence! Join your fellow senior executives from the leading publishers and developers of educational software, online curriculum, and educational technologies.

Visit our Events page for a list of all upcoming SLIA events.

If you have any further questions regarding our events, contact Liderby Portorrea I, Program Manager, Education Division.