

SIIA's Vision from the Top is a collection of interviews with SIIA member executives running some of the most exciting technology companies today. New technology trends are rapidly transforming our industry, making this one of the most exciting times in technology evolution. Our goal for this book is to provide insights into some of the challenges brought on by these new technology trends and how successful companies are addressing these challenges to continue on a path of solid growth. We also look at how these trends are, not only affecting business today, but also what they will mean for the future of our industry. To do this, we tapped into the minds of the SIIA member executives driving innovative technology businesses. Our members provide technology solutions or services across a spectrum of industries and their expertise can be applied to many verticals.

With interviews from industry experts, this book is an excellent resource for executives managing businesses and assessing future growth.
